

Changi Millionaire 2015 instant prize premiums

In addition to a chance of fulfilling one's dream of becoming a millionaire, shoppers and diners also stand a chance to win and collect these six premiums, specially designed by local designers, Wang Shijia and Jo Soh.

Wang Shijia has artistically combined her brand of “Ang Ku Kueh Girl<sup>3</sup> and Friends” with Changi Airport’s renowned gardens. Themed “A Garden in a Garden City”, Ang Ku Kueh Girl spreads joy and happiness from the garden city, as Changi Airport celebrates Singapore’s 50 years of independence.

Jo Soh, known for her award winning women’s wear label, hansel, uses Singapore’s skyline featuring the country’s iconic landmarks for the three premiums designed by her. She uses the skyline in black and white stripes for a timeless and unisex appeal (for the two items on the left), as well as popular food items such as roti prata, laksa and durian to form Singapore’s famous landmarks (for the premium on the right).
